APPROPRIATION BILLS PUSHED WITH GREAT HASTE.
BUTLER EXPLAINS HIS POSITION ON THE QUESTION OF TITLE.
Reasons Urged for Making the Investigation Thorough.
Matthews Virtually Sustained by the Senate for Disobeying Potter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.--The senate bill to pay James B. Eads at once $500,000 for work on the Mississippi jetties passed to-day under a suspension of the rules. Mr. Eads has been in town for two months past working hard with committee, men to secure the payment of this claim. He was in one of the galleries of the house to-day at the time the vote was taken, and as soon as the result was announced, he hurried out, followed by several friends. The bill was on the speaker's table, and there were few voices raised against it. When it was reached no measure of anything like its importance ever passed with so little opposition. The vote was 132 to 27 by tellers, and the yeas and nays were not called.

STANLEY MATTHEWS.
The senate this evening took up the house resolution in regard to Stanley Matthews asking that he have the authorization of the senate to appear before the house committee. Mr. Wallace, of Pennsylvania, moved that Mr. Matthews have the consent of the senate to appear. This resolution would have passed of course if it had come to a vote, but the Republicans promptly had it referred to the committee on privileges and elections, where it will of course be buried in order to save Matthews from going before the house committee. Matthews spent considerable time during the day in consultation with Kellogg, who has been promised to go before the Potter committee at his earliest convenience. The house adopted all the senate amendments to the joint resolution making appropriations for the expenses of the Potter committee.

AN ENORMOUS APPROPRIATION BILL.
The senate completed its consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill late this afternoon, and the conference committee on the bill was appointed at the evening session of both branches. The bill as sent back to the house by the senate is the most enormous of the kind ever laid before any house of congress. In addition to the $5,500,000 of the fishery award, the senate has added nearly $5,000,000 of minor appropriations, making the aggregate of the bill about $10,500,000. The senate put on nearly a million of dollars over and above what was put on by its committee on appropriations, and amendments were offered by the senators and defeated which would have made at least a million more. Among these defeated amendments were a proposed appropriation of $275,000 for a national museum, $50,000 for a workshop at Fort Leavenworth, Fla., and $180,000 to pay certain tribes of Indians a job feathered by Plumb, of Kansas.

THE DISRUPTION ACT.
This was defeated for want of a two-thirds majority, although it obtained a majority. The house was in session for an hour this evening when a bill to extend the land grant of the Northern Pacific Railway failed in the same way. The house adjourned between 9 and 10 o'clock this evening on the announcement of the death of Congressman Terence J. Quinn, of Albany.

THE MONETARY COMMISSION.
The senate finance committee has reported back without recommendation the nominations of Reuben E. Fenton, Wm. A. Groesbeck and T. Walker as commissioners to the monetary conference.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.--The president and cabinet were at the capital for about two hours this afternoon, and a large number of bills were signed after an examination by the hands of the respective departments.

BUTLER AND THE PRESIDENT'S TITLE.
General Butler as an individual member of the judiciary committee to-day submitted at great length to the house of representatives his reasons for dissenting from the resolution and report of the majority in regard to the inviolability of the president's title. He thinks it remarkable that in the face of the sixth section of the act establishing the electoral commission the committee should have come to the conclusion that the proceedings of the committee or of congress subsequent thereto constitute an immovable finality, when the law itself declares contrary, and the contrary was emphatically asserted by the house of representatives. Instead of constituting a finality those proceedings were on their face and in express terms merely a temporary expediency or device to avoid the contingency of a lapsed election, for which the Constitution had made no provision. Congress, he says, by express words of law declared that its object and effect were provisional only. The President entered upon his office with the express notice that his tenure was questionable in character, of doubtful validity, not made absolute by the interposition of an extra constitutional commission, but to be examined and adjudicated upon by the courts.
